ON THE COVER . . .

Scene at Maxwalton Farms in Ohio. The John Campbell herd contains possibly the strongest concentration in the nation, of Maxwalton bloodlines.

The home of John and Justine Campbell at Gbant, Kentucky.

The herd of the late John T. Campbell, Gbant, Kentucky, is one of the oldest and most highly regarded in the state. This herd could always be counted on for a strong consignment to the Kentucky Futurity sale.

Only in the dispersion of fine established herds can one buy into female families that are consistent producers of quality calves. Through generations of selective breeding, only the top producers now remain in the herd.

John Campbell and his brother Wallace grew up with Shorthorns, Wallace later becoming a managing partner of the famous Maxwalton herd in Ohio and now is manager of the Brown-Forman Experimental Farm. Both astute cattlemen, it was only natural that John Campbell's herd include a heavy amount of the finest maxwalton bloodlines.

These cattle, and the cattle of the other consignors, will all be sold in pasture condition, and most of them will not be broken to lead. For cattlemen who can recognize good values in cattle in their working clothes, no sale this fall will provide better buying opportunities.

It is regrettable this fine herd must be dispersed. However, the sale of these cattle gives us an opportunity to found an "off grass" type sale at Danville, something we have wanted to start for a long time. It is our plan to make this an annual affair. It should be a service for buyers and sellers alike ... buyers who like to buy them in pasture flesh ... sellers who are busy farmers and cannot fit their purebreds.

The sale is made stronger by a fine consignment of 22 lots from Anderson & Greene, Mt. Sterling; Cyrus Milby, Greensburg; and D. A. Patterson, Paris.

DIPLOMAT -- Phopachy Diplomat was the great imported bull used by Glenburn in Canada. His sons and daughters have averaged around $1000 for about six years. Eldorado Jilt was an undefeated show cow, possibly the most famous female in the Glenburn herd. This bull was bred by Glenburn. He has done a fine job for us. He still has a lot of service ahead of him. Plenty of his get will be on view sale day so that you will know what a good sire he is.
